NOTES IN NATURAL HISTORY .- A lady of title informed Buffon that she knew a blackbird who looked at the barometer every morning. and would not go out if it pointed to wet. An anecdote told by a German naturalist of a beaver is no less wonderful than the above; he declares that he saw a beaver weeping over the crown of an old hat. Soon another beaver approached it, and she cried more piteously than the first; then a number of young beavers, attracted by their sobs, came running up, and they all cried too. He accounts for this by saying that the hat being made of beaver, the animals had evidently recognized in it the skin of one of their own kindred. "Who can say," he asks, "whether this very hat was not to them the sad remains of an affectionate son-the only remembrance of a favorite brother?"

Captain Parry tells a story of a Polar bear, which puts the instinct of the animal beyond all doubt; he had given it to one of his sailors, who, with this small capital, started showman, and having taught the bear to dance, used to take it out upon the streets. The sailor after-ward assured Captain Parry that he could never get the bear to pass a barber's shop; he accounts for this by saying, that, as "bear's grease" was only sold to those places, the animal was in a constant state of fear lest it would be his fate some day to be sold in six-penny

The sociable grosbeck, a bird which is found abut the Cape of Good Hope, displays great ingenuity in building its nest, which is constructed as strongly as possible, so as to keep out the March rains. A Genevese traveller records the fact of finding a whole row of their nests covered over at the roof with bits of mack-intosh, which they had evidently picked up from one of the frequent wrecks off the coast. What but instinct could have taught these sociable grosbecks that mackintoshes were water-

Many singular anecdotes are told of the fox. The most probable of those is the one of the fox plundering a hen every morning of its eggs, and leaving a piece of chalk, of the same size of an egg, for every one he stole.

POPULATION OF THE GLOBE.—There are on the globe 1,118,000,000, souls of which 360. 000,000 are Caucassians; 522,000,000 are Mongolians: 190,000,000 are Ethiopians; 279,000.-000 are Malaysians; 1,000,000 are Indo-Am-

There are 8,642 languages spoken, and 1,000 religions. The yearly mortality of the globe is 42,043,000 persons. This at the rate of 115,200 per day, 4,800 per hour, 80 permioute. So each pulsation of the human heart marks the decease of some human creature; the average human life is 33 years; one fourth of the age of 70; married men live longer than single ones; in 100, 95 marry; and more marriages occur in June and December than in any other months in the year; there are 336,000,000 Christians (only about one quarter of the human race); there are 6,000,000 Israelites; there are 600,000,000 Asiatic religionists, there 300,000,000 Pagans; in the Christian churches, 170,000,000 profess the Roman Catholic religion, 75,000.000 profess the Greek faith, and 80,000,000 the Protestant.

sting. It now ate sugar from his hand and allowed him to stroke it. The wasp had every appearance of health and happiness, and al though it enjoyed an "outing" occasionally, it readily returned to its bottle, which it seemed to regard as a home. This was the first tame wasp kept by itself he had ever heard

A BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT.-The following

"The idea that the judicial officer is supposed to be vested with ermine, though fabulous and mythical, is yet more eloquent in its significance. We are told that the little creature called ermine is so acutely sensitive as to its own cleanliness that it becomes paralyzed and powerless at the slightest touch of defilement upon its snow white fur. When the hunters are pursuing it they spread with mire the pass leading to its haunts, toward which they then draw it, knowing that it will submit to be captured rather than defile itself. And a like sensibility should belong to him who comes to exercise the august functions of Judge.

ARTIFICAL EYES, -A French paper gives a detailed accont of the manufacture of false eyes in Paris, from which the curious fact appears that the average sale per week of eyes, intended for the human head, amounts to 400. One of the leading dealers in the article carries on the business in a saloon of great magnificence; his servant has but one eye, and the eye wanted by a customer is conveniently tried in his servant's head, so that the customer can judge very readily as to the appearance it will produce in his own head. The charge is about a time, and exchanged for new ones; they

ORGANIC WEAKNESS. ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the natural powers are lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened. Loss of Procreative Power Nervous, Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

Member of the Royal College of Surgery of London, Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospi-tals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mlnd becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds o this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery de ters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him,

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRE.

TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness in despair leaves him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment.

THE TAME WASP .- At the recent meeting of the British Association, in Brighten, in the section of zoology and botany, Sir John Lub-bock exhibited a tame wasp which had been in his possession for about three months, which he brought with him from the Pyrenees. The wasp was of a social kind, and he took it in its nest formed of twenty-seven cells, in which there were fifteen eggs, and had the wasp been allowed to remain, by this time there would have been quite a little colony of wasps. None of the eggs, however, came to maturity, and the wasp had laid no eggs since it has been in his possession. The wasp was now quite tame, thought at first it was rather too ready with its
